MY CATHEDRAL IN THE SEA

A History of the Conway

MY CATHEDRAL IN THE SEA
HARLEY STANTON

My Cathedral in the Sea traces the story of the Conway from its construction in 1851 in Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada to its final resting place in the Atlantic in 1875. Conway traversed the globe, making many trans-Atlantic crossings and five journeys to Australia. The book gives a vivid picture of life on a sailing ship in the mid-nineteenth century including the reasons for emigration, the experiences of passengers and life at sea with extensive extracts from logs, passenger diaries and contemporary newspapers. The tragedy and triumph of the Conway is meticulously referenced to the people, places and times and includes an extensive index.

Harley Stanton's story of the Conway is an extensive, meticulously researched work with appeal for readers interested in convict, maritime, migration, Tasmanian and Australian history.
